

Dydd Mearth 21 Mai

Suddenly, Jey and Mana were slithering linedly towards the Supermarket car-park to look for cook. Stood their right in front of them was the tallest and biggest building they have ever layde eyes on. How on Earth could they find cook in this monster?

As they stood in front of the strong terrising dog guard their worries began to expand. The dog was big and strong and Jey and Mana were small nattle snakes. They needed to get in but had no clue how to reach this massive goal, but had to. Jey and mana had to think of a plan and they did. The plan was they found a bone and destroyed the dog with it.

With one big throw Jey threw a bone towards the dog guard and destroyed him, and slowly they slithered into the Supermarket. Amozed and Shocked they looked with there mouths wide open at the most snitering sight ever. They saw a giant human helicopter which was like a huge Snake box. All the good app organised like a perfect line of domians. Just then with horror Jey and Mana saw something so scary they both nearly gainted, it was a Snake killing gardening claspors. They were as sharp as Shari's teeth. They both pheded the humans could not hurt them with these tools.

Cook was gradually slithering towards the Serial boxes. He patiently waited for a human to grab some Serial something down the shelves, cook looked at his target face to face, the Snake was going as slow as a worm but the humans were coming, he had to be quick. He had across his body moved. Box salled. However, he lost his footing....

Joey and mana were selling a bit sed up. They had been searching up and down, side to side in the store and still could not find cook. Just then they both saw a green lizard cowered in several boxes, it was lying flat on the supermarket floor. He was trapped, they kicked the several boxes quickly with their tails on the floor, and cook gasp once. He was though flat as a pancake on the floor. Joey and Mana had to fix him.

The two serpents angrily rattled their tails, as they rushed cook out of the market. Quickly they all achieved to exit the lower of door, while no one could see them. When they found a pumper they pumped air into a terrified Cook. Cook got air back into his body like a pumped up boy. Joey raging with anger with his coocean. Surprised Joey and Mana heard cook giggling happily. They were both greeted but doubtful because Joey and Mana knew his could not be the last of cook's silliness.